Today's and yesterdays that have passed all have been a treasure of the growing helping us to become ourselves.

The freedom just to be a part of our dreams —
our dreams combined

Endless hopes and ambitions we strived for year after year to begin and finally to end.

Closing

We become a part of each other — memories
in an open book of reserved thoughts

Smiles that we've encountered, spoken words
forever imprinted on our minds.

Faculty

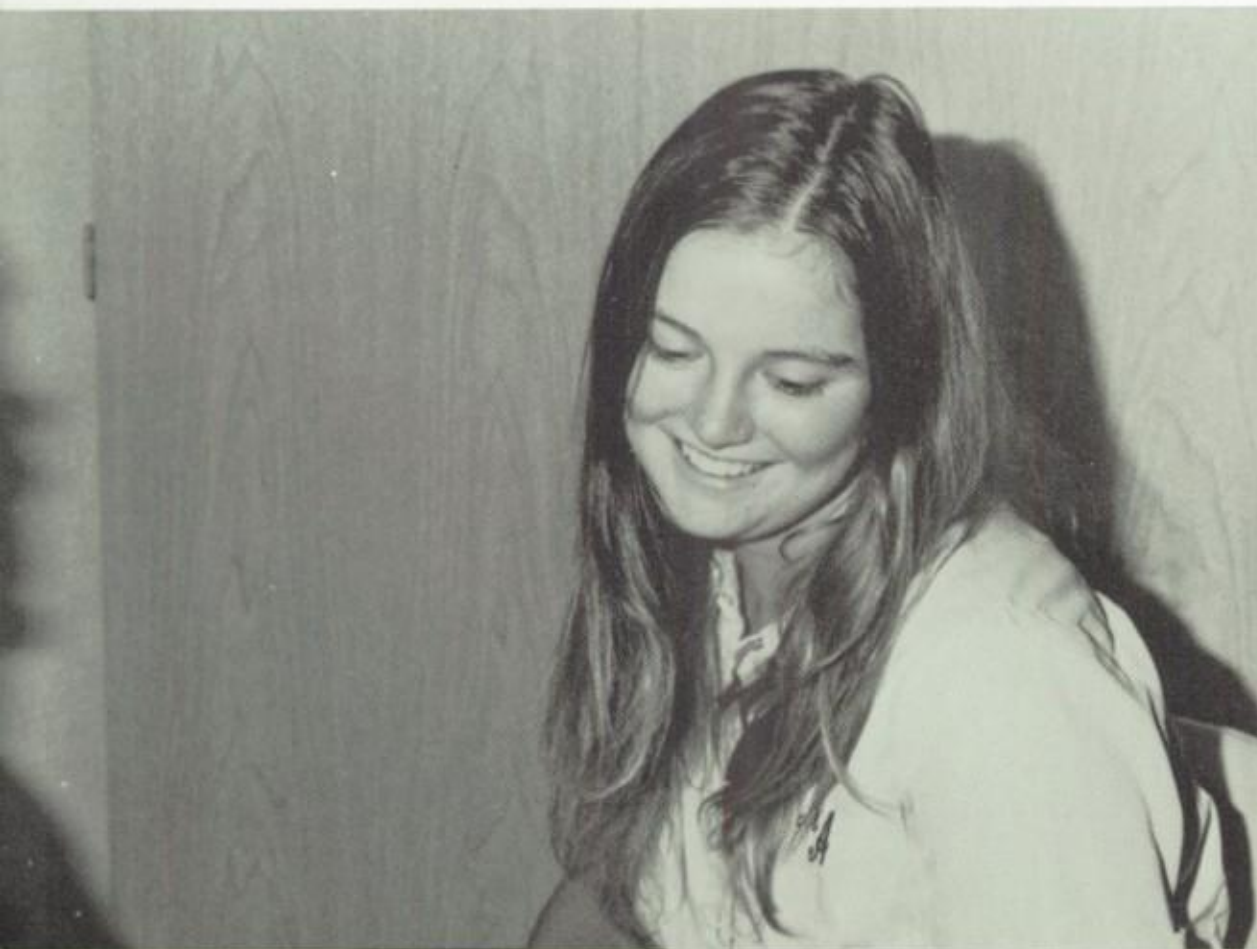

Sister Doris Ann chats with enthusiastic freshman mothers.

Another afternoon in the life of a busy school principal.

Mrs. Colletti directs office matters?

Qualities Shared

Proficiency, patience and preparation are skills the administration excels in. Sr. Doris Ann, principal; Mrs. Colletti, secretary; and Mrs. Lombardo, treasurer. Ready to help with present and future plans are Mrs. Meredith, guidance counselor; and Mrs. Bock, secretary.

Mrs. Meredith and Laura Quin map out a college future.

Mrs. Lombardo is strictly business.

Mrs. Bock delights at an original excuse.

Mrs. Maranzano and Mrs. Stierle discuss the sandwich business.

Personally Speaking . . .

Driving buses, caring for the sick, making lunches, and keeping the school in good repair are the personnel: Mrs. Kenyon, Mrs. Carines, and Mrs. Walters, bus drivers; volunteer mothers, health room ladies; Mrs. Maranzano, Mrs. Stierle, lunchroom: Mr. Schwartz, Mr. Morales, and Mr. Colletti, janitors.

"Thought I was going to die," recalls ailing freshman.

Mr. Morales and Mr. Colletti try to keep their colleague, Mr. Schwartz, in his place.

A record, accident free, provokes smiles from Mrs. Walthers, Mrs. Kenyon with her daughter Vicki, and Mrs. Cairnes.

That's a novel way to look for a book, Rita.

Mrs. Mortimer keeps AV equipment in good running condition.

Mickey Dolan and Gail Penderghast plan their section as Melissa Kenny approves.

Mrs. Poitras helps Evon Daboul discover new dimensions.

Science arouses freshman curiosities.

Young artist Vicki Brawn creates her masterpiece.

Discover!

History Report! Chemistry Lab! Term Paper! Where to find the information? For the answer Mrs. Poitras and Mrs. Mortimer are always in the library to help.

Answering last year's academic gaps are this year's new courses: IPS for freshmen, Publications for newspaper and yearbook and Art II.

History Menagerie

"Involvement definitely" answered Mrs. Henderson, History and E.C.S. teacher, when asked what the history classes are about this year and that sums it up well. The different classes got involved in everything from slavery and communism to current events including the presidential election. Both Sister Eleanor's and Sister Margaret's American History classes, all PAD classes, including Miss Gartland's used tapes and "Issues Today."

Miss Gartland looks at the bright side of history.

History has many surprises Sister Eleanor.

Mrs. Henderson explains the workings of a Contemporary Society.

Sister Margaret reviews the pros and cons f

each political party.

Mrs. Henderson reads up on current events.

Miss Gartland stands firm on the issue in question.

Math department's rookie of the year, Miss Kolar.

Sum-thing in the way she smiles.

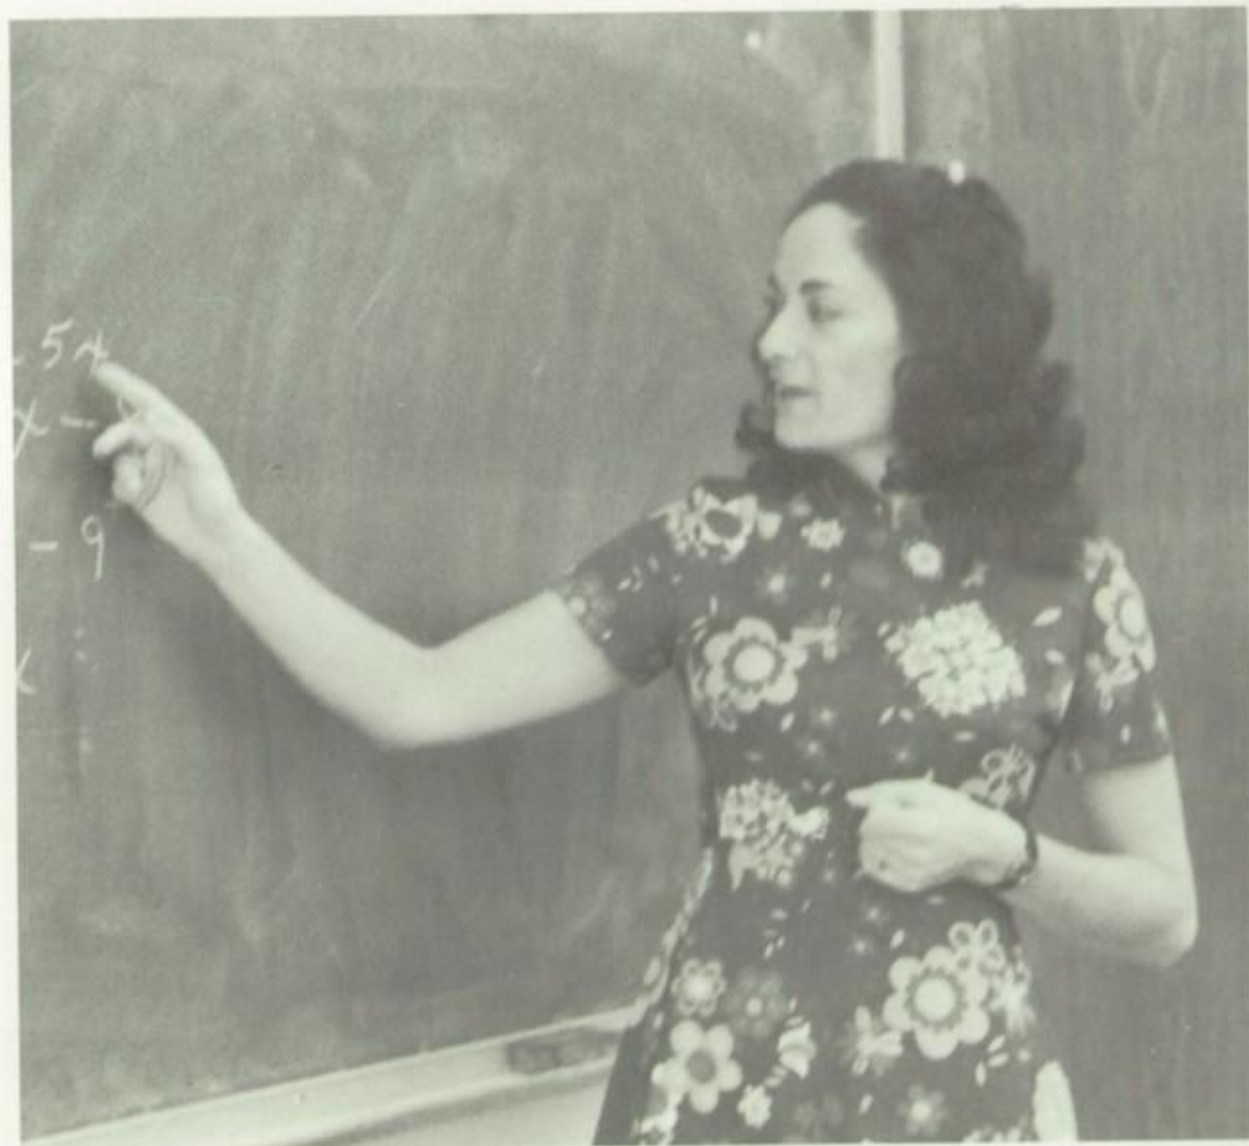

Sister Sharon Marie divides her time.

Facts and Figures

From the roots of pre-algebra to the branches of chemistry, math and science have always been symbiotic partners.

Figuring and formulating new approaches to the scientific and mathematical world are Miss Kolar, math; Mrs. Rabin, math; Mrs. Taylor, math; Sister Sharon Marie, math and science; Sister J. Renee, math and science; and Mrs. Davis, Science.

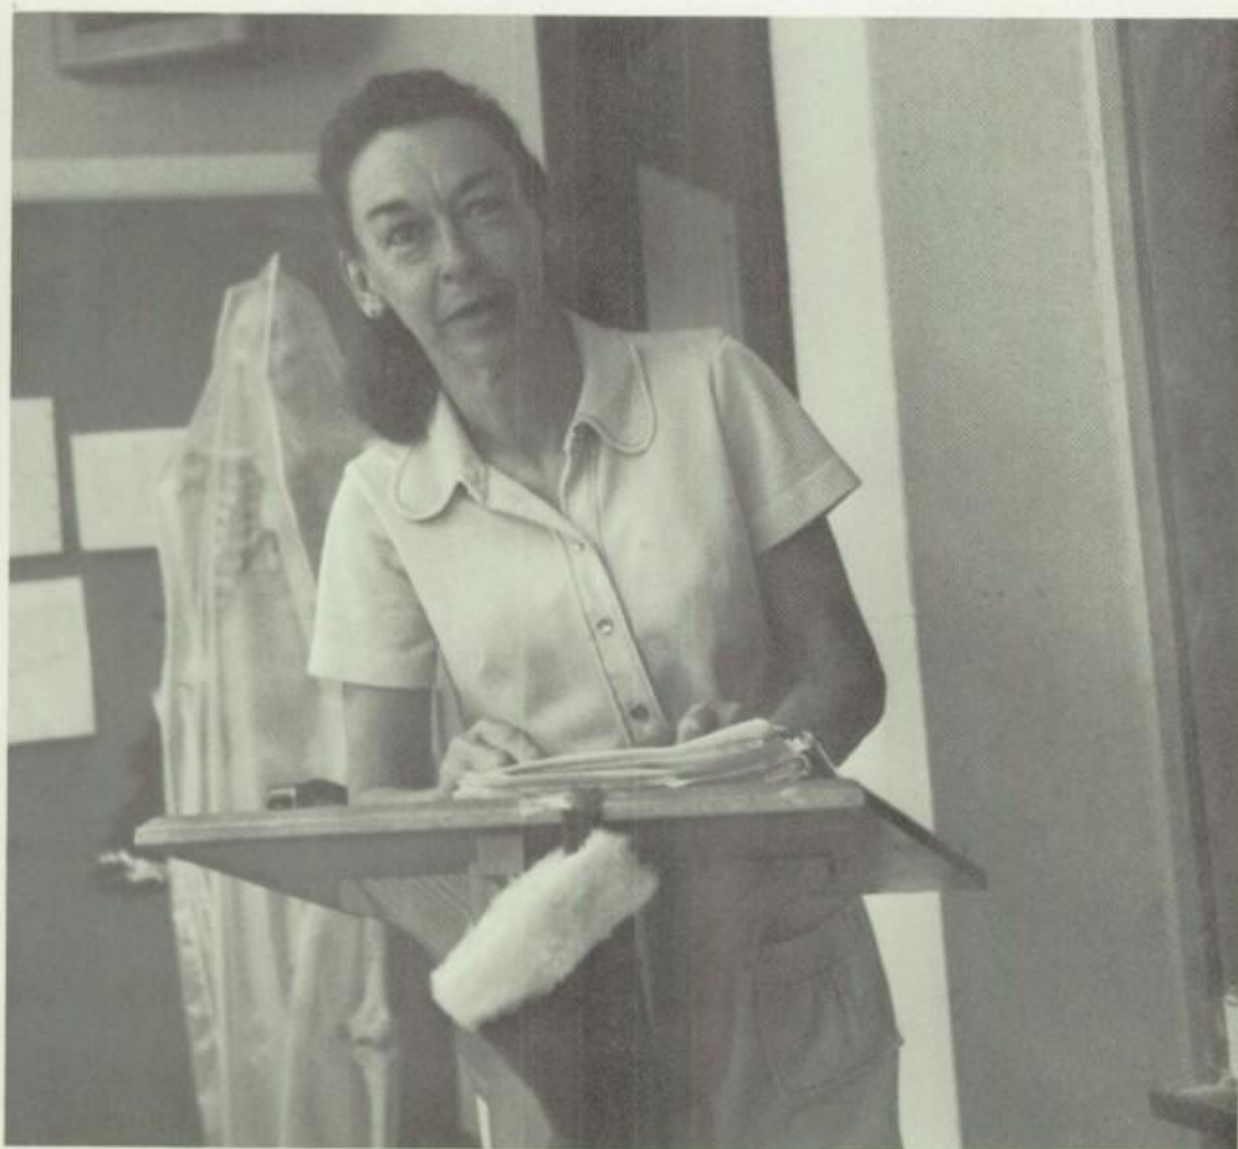

Mrs. Rabin goes over the problem one more time.

qually between math and science.

Mad scientists, Mary Bosco and Ana Vidal, see the light.

Mrs. Davis explains the sex life of a flower.

Mrs. Taylor adds new dimensions to math.

Phys. Ed.'s dynamic duo, Miss Favre and Mrs. Kelly.

Mrs. Page explains the parts

Energetic Homemakers

Phys. Ed. is the most active and variety-filled of all the classes offered. Ranging from swimming to volleyball and from tennis to bowling, Mrs. Kelly, our coach, and Miss Favre widen insights into the many fields of Phys. Ed. Zig-zagging their way through Home Ec. class, students are faced with future endeavors. With the help of teachers like Mrs. Abell and Mrs. Page, students are introduced and acquainted with the domestic world.

Nancy be nimble, Nancy be quick.

as Mrs. Abell points them.

Mrs. Bruce lends a helping hand to Lidia Roig.

Miss Calahan insists on efficiency.

Tomorrow's business women practice skills.

The Sounds of Business

"Home row, girls. A, S, D . . . " A tapping is heard as the typing classes master the art of playing the typewriter keys. To write faster than the speed of sound the shorthand class labors over the cryptic code. The machines buzz as the girls learn to use the tools of their trade. Conducting all into harmonious blending, producing future business personnel are Miss Callahan and Mrs. Bruce.

Sister Mary braces herself for a take-off in English.

Sister Marguerite seems to know the answer

Miss Pater unwinds between classes.

Mrs. Revtai strikes a typical pose.

Carmen Blanco and Sandy Lombardo open

... and of course she's always right.

"Smiling faces show no traces of the evil that lurks within."

ew doors to creativity.

Sister Jeanine shares her point of view.

Expanding and Improving

From Madonna-stock to Macbeth, the English classes illustrated versatility. Sister Marguerite's and Sister Jeanine's English classes expanded their outlooks with field trips like a workshop day with a theatrical group, the Asolo players, and animated film-making. Miss Gartland's, Miss Pater's, Mrs. Revtai's, and Sister Mary's classes got chances to share ideas and creativity with plays, speeches, and open discussions.

Experience

Experience sums up the goals of Religion classes this year, experience in religion not memorized facts. There are nine teachers who are making this course of thought a real experience. They are Mrs. Taylor, Miss Gartland, Sister Eleanor, Sister Marguerite, Sister Jeanine, Sister Jean Renee, Sister Sharon Marie, Sister Mary, and Sister Margaret. Also aiding in Spiritual Guidance is Father John, new chaplain.

"Gather together for what we believe."

Sister Eleanor and Debbie Wells partake of the Eucharist.

Father John and Liz Wasowski discuss new meanings to Scripture.

Father John takes a breather.

Michele Lampasso plays patty cake with her clay.

Creators

Students from Mrs. Lauritsen's art classes and Sister Eleanor's music classes produce something more than art. From the ceramic and fine art classes to classical and contemporary music classes they yield originality, quality, and form.

A note of delight beams from Sister Eleanor.

"Such talent! What is it?" questions Mrs. Lauritsen.

Play it again Sam.

What can you say about a note?

Tri-lingual?

Parlez-vous Francais?
Habla Espanol?
You speak English?
With the addition of foreign films, Mrs. Albert and Mrs. Saavedra's Spanish II classes see Spain come alive before their eyes. Mrs. Watson teaches the freshmen Spanish. Mrs. Abell's French class highlights the year with a French luncheon by the seniors.

Nancy Abell finds languages a challenge.

Mrs. Saavedra chuckles at an amusing translation.

Spanish is serious business for th

Mrs. Albert poses for a Spanish smile.

Mrs. Abell instructs the class to "think French."

Mrs. Watson listens for the correct pronunciation.

French teacher, Mrs. Abell believes in explanations.

"The End of the Beginning"

What have we become to ourselves?

What can our lives — when separated from time we've spent together — be worth to us?

How can our minds hold forever memories we've cherished over the years?

In the beginning time was but a distinct minute . . .

Familiarizing ourselves with each other as being unique.

Exploring new roads to distant lands, we could vaguely see the first time — we opened our eyes.

And this we found was only the beginning . . .

But soon the first road ends.

We can then see just a little bit clearer what we are expected to be — and what we really are.

We become aware of our need for acceptance and trust if ...

We are to become one . . .

We are now beginning to see the road ahead is only just the start of what we are striving for.

We travel on as another year passes

And this we find is only the beginning . . .

Soon we reach an understanding that the time we spend wondering and trying to become one with ourselves.

We discover an awareness our eyes have been closed to.

What we really need is Togetherness . . .

And so our journey continues and another year slips by

And this is just the beginning of the end . . .

After traveling for four long years,
time has come to an end.

The many obstacles we encounter work to unite us closer to — each other.

Lastly we become what we journeyed toward for so long;

— The Senior Class of '73 —
the completion of another underclassmen

Another year has gone by Making the grand total three . . .
 It's been fun,
 exciting,
 difficult
 We had little sisters,
 initiation,
 rings,
 prom.
 We've encountered . . .
 New teachers, old teachers,
 new friends, old friends,
 Yet there is still more friends to come.
 We feel . . .
 anxious,
 nervous,
 But most of all . . .
 Hopeful for the best senior year
 yet.

Sophomore Dreams

Today all the dreams were like rainbows dancing in the sky. Time spent creating as a whole — uniqueness. A moment of happiness when shared between two. A moment of comfort when the happy moments turned gray. A moment of trust and understanding when there is a shoulder to lean on around every corner. Yesterday all the moments rolled up into one, and it is only the beginning of becoming ourselves. The yesterdays that seem so distant yet are in the palm of our hand. The desire to become someone, for someone, beside ourself. The hope that the special person we look up to will still be there. And to know the responsibility stems from within. Concern for what we are expressing each day we are together. To be aware that these expressions tell others what we really are. Tomorrow as each day moves on, time moves on, we move on. With each new sunrise we become unique to ourselves. We become united with each other, we become a part of each other, we represent each other, we have taken the time to learn and become from each other. Today all the dreams were like rainbows dancing in the sky.

Freshman Feelings

The stillness of the gloomy day is disturbed by the slight chattering of girls on the walk. A feeling of shyness surrounds the class. A feeling of fear which is hard to put into words. This is the first time they are alone again, against the world, striving for togetherness. As the shyness is dispelled the day becomes brighter. As each day passes a new name is added to the rolls of our minds — a friend. A wonderful sensation pervades our spirits — a feeling of love, affection, and of belonging. This feeling shows in every action and every word, in every accomplishment and every conversation. It continues to grow throughout the weeks and years until tomorrow is today and then only in our memories — but our memories united with you.

student life

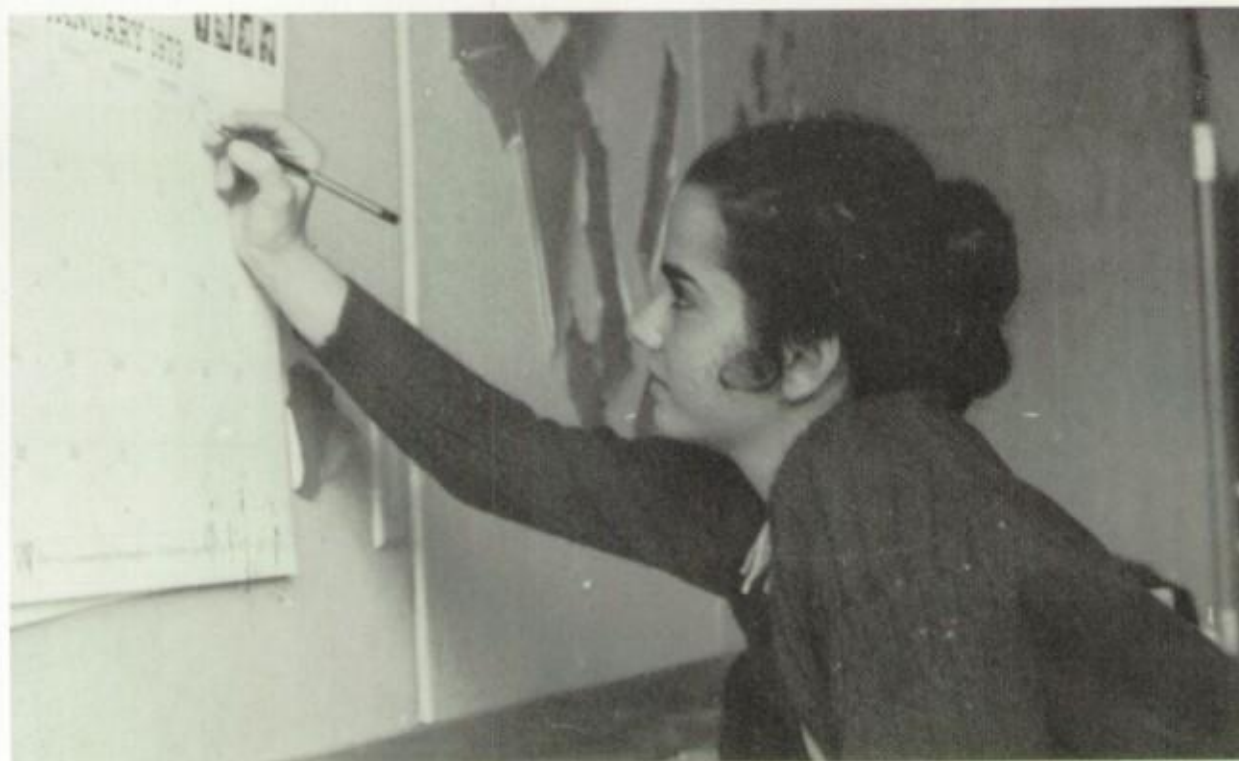

Photography and Print Unite

Imagination, interests, insights, invite suspense to the end of the year distribution of the Mariean, Madonna's yearbook. All year long the yearbook staff with the assistance of Sister Jean Renee work on the tedious job of making the yearbook current and complete.

Work is not all that is involved in the composition of gathered news. Good learning techniques produce correct publication. With cooperation and effort the staff has completed another year of Mariean circulation in Madonna. A frantic rush from homeroom to homeroom, as the 2:30 bell rings and Madonna's newspaper, Indian Ink, is gone with the end of the day. Students stand about anxious and curious scanning the news from what's going on around school to behind the scenes. Sister Marguerite and the newspaper staff plunge forward catching details of the happenings of student life recaptured into words.

Honorable Mention

With Mrs. Abell as moderator, N.H.S. has been active. Tutoring and brain brawl are just two of their many projects. In February of this year, Mrs. Bruce greeted the best scholars, leaders and professionals of the business classes into the N.B.H.S.

Spirit Unites

When everyone helps to promote spirit then they are unified. Especially this year with the Majorettes and Cheerleaders. Our Majorettes helped unify Chaminade and Madonna's relationship by marching during half-times at all the football games. Cheerleading is an honor bestowed on twenty-two girls every year. Along with this honor comes hard work and endless practice. This girl is given a chance to show her spirit but the job is to help others to show this spirit.

Spirit-Promoters

The spirit and enthusiasm displayed by our AA reps under Mrs. Jill Kelly and Pam Griffin, president, reflects the pride they have in their club. AA undertook such responsibilities as Sunland, Intramurals, and promoting class spirit. A new addition this year was a fun-filled camp-out of which the memories will never be forgotten.

This year spirit was enthusiastically promoted at all the games, Chaminade and Madonna alike, by none other than Madonna's Pep Club. An added attraction of the club were the large red and blue shakers each member possessed. They seemed to give the crowds an extra incentive to cheer. This year for the first time two joint pep rallies were held with Chaminade. You can bet the Pep Club was right there.

Creative Interests

This year the Art Club got into the swing of things early by preparing for an art sale that was held prior to Christmas. Members all participated in creating interesting items for the sale. After the first of the year quite a few workshops were held and several speakers were invited. All this added variety to the meetings. The Art Club is an important part of the school and the club is trying very hard to make this fact known.

Elected to Serve

The Student Council Officers Mary Ann Calhoun, president; Phyllis Lapinski, vice-president; Mary Garrish, treasurer; and Jayme Harpring, secretary were elected at the end of last year's school term and they've been busy ever since. Their activity shows through in the many projects that the Student Council either sponsored like monthly assemblies covering such subjects as Sunland, POW's, and the migrant workers, the homeroom Christmas projects and the Junior-Senior workday or directly took part in, like helping at Sunland and the Broward Kidney Foundation Drive. The result was a busy, productive, and very successful year for the whole school.

The First 'Miss Charm'

This year for the first time the Business Association made its presence felt in the school by sponsoring the Miss Charm contest which made it known that Karen Bonura and Patty Brennan were the most charming girls in the school. In the club itself, the members heard speakers from different businesses giving career information and from the phone company giving training and help with first job interviews. The club also went to help at Sunland. Under Miss Callahan's guidance the club became aware of others as others were made aware of them.

President MaryAnn Cafiero expresses her opinion on the matter.

The Drama World

Fantasy, comedy, tragedy: these three elements combine to make the stage come alive. The girls display their talents through the fields of acting, stage crew, and make-up. A children's theatre was a new beginning for the drama club. President Carmen Blanco feels that this is a new step towards giving to children the magic of drama and its wonderment. Spirit Through Song

With a little bit of accordion by Phyllis Lapinski and Robin Lally keeping a steady beat of the drums the Glee Club performs at its best all year long. Sister Eleanore and her cast of singers spread enthusiasm and spirit through hard work and much preparation for good vocal quality. December brought tidings of good cheer with the Glee Club's annual Christmas presentation also performed as a special invitation for Chaminade and Nativity. Freshman, Michele Miles, brought silence to the stage with a solo of Silent Night. Setting the mood for the true Christmas spirit, Robin and Phyllis came on with a duet that captivated their audience with a "Medley of Christmas Carols." February began a fresh start for the new year exhibited by hard work and practice as the Glee Club presented the annual Spring Concert. The show being divided up into three categories, Fiddler on the Roof, Godspell, and Variety proved to be the success the Glee Club has worked for.

Gather Together

Classes were shortened and the bell rang for the assembly. Explosions of people poured out of the classrooms and hurried to the auditorium for an assembly. POW's? Sunland? College? What would be the subject for today? This year Madonna had invited and introduced many new and interesting topics. Along with the yearly candy drive skit and club introductions, there were such added interests as acupuncture, yearbook drive, National Honor Society, and National Business Honor Society. Assemblies have widened our interests and lessened our doubts concerning the world today.

Christmas Spirit Expressed

Christmas time has got to be one of the most important times of the year for sharing and making people happy. The air seems to be filled with a kind of anxiety that lights the faces of all. Such was the sight seen throughout Madonna. Decorative lockers brightened the halls, while tinsel trimmed classrooms changed the whole atmosphere of the school. The Glee Club Christmas carolers and the drama department's presentation, completed the feeling of the joyful Christmas to come.

Sister Jeanine shares one of the magazine's selections with an interested student.

Creations

This year, the Home Ec department proudly presented to the school "A Page From Simplicity." This homemade presentation had selections ranging all the way from sleepwear and evening gowns, to school clothes. Each outfit was homemade and modeled by its own creator. Also this year, PFA held its annual fashion show at the Viking Restaurant in Dania. Juniors and seniors, along with their mothers and friends were invited. Number One!

Determination, enthusiasm, and hard work were the three most relevant words to the teams this year. The teams displayed their talents in volleyball, basketball, and softball. The teams brought home four trophies. The loyalty and friendship between the girls themselves was an important factor in the development of the Chiefs. The Chiefs, under the patience and guidance of Mrs. Jill Kelly, our coach, and Miss Casi Favre truly proved that the Chiefs are Number One!!

Fathers and daughters were given such competition as the jitterbug: Freshmen; the charleston: Sophomores; the cha-cha: Juniors; and the waltz: Seniors. After a night out dancing, who would refuse the Annual Mother-Daughter Breakfast? This year, for the first time, breakfast was catered, while fathers still assisted. Previous to this, Mass was celebrated by Father John. Both events brought happiness to all who participated.

Time

The hands of a clock ticking the moments of life away . . . Silence persuades thoughts gathered throughout the years. Memories recalled in broken dreams that leave a trace . . . Constant inner struggle to find and develop values in life . . . With an open mind conflicts diminished into reality. Past experiences are recalled so vaguely yet so clearly. Goals remain as visions of hope and eagerness yet to come as another minute has escaped from its web of time. Another year ended, another piece of life's puzzle complete. The hands of a clock tick onto another year — a new reality.

You Have Touched Me and I Have Grown

MRS. CAROL GADEK

Her life touched us, and we have grown.
We learned of love not said but shown.
She was that added special touch,
God's gift to us that meant so much.
When it was dark and most would despair,
She'd find or build a light somewhere.
She was a teacher and friend in the truest way,
For her teachings we practice day after day.
She taught us what it was to share,
Our love, our life's, what it meant to care.
Our love for her, words just can't express,
She was God's gift from heaven,
A person. His Best.

We dedicate this page to Mrs. Gadek, her husband Billy Gadek, her parents Mr. and Mrs. Terio and know that they are not sad, but can cherish the happy moments and the love exchanged.

Love,
The Junior Class

Yesterdays are memories we have marked in gold

With our backs on the past, we are ready to step into a future that has already begun.
